AVALANCHE OF PROTESTS DESCENDS ON CAPITAL AS RESULT OF DR. GARFIELD'S SUSPENDING ORDER

Dr. Garfield Called Before Senate Committee to Explain.

Fuel and Transportation Situation Made Order Imperative, He Informs Senate.

Aroused and Fearful, Both Republican and Democratic Leaders in Senate and House Move to Suspend Drastic Order.

Senator Hitchcock Makes a Stirring Speech on Present Conditions.

State Officials, Gripped with Uncertainty, While Thousands of Cars Remain on Sidings.

By Associated Press Dispatch.
Washington, January 17.—Garfield was asked by the Senate Coal investigating committee to appear for examination regarding his order.
Dr. Garfield went before the committee and told his reason for the order. The fuel and railroad situation, he said, made the action imperative.

LEADERS AROUSED

By Associated Press Dispatch.
Washington, January 17.—Aroused and fearful of the fuel administration order Republican and Democratic leaders in the Senate today introduced resolutions to suspend it.

Senator Hitchcock, a Democratic leader, moved to suspend the order for five days pending investigation. He acted after conferences with other Democratic leaders.

Senator Gallinger, Republican leader, after conferring with members of his party, introduced a resolution to suspend the order altogether until its necessity is proved.

"The situation," said Senator Hitchcock, "is an argument for reform in our government. I predict that before much time elapses we will be compelled to lodge somewhere absolute power for co-ordination of branches of our government that are now running wild."

VAST UNCERTAINTY AMONG OFFICIALS

Estimated that Ten Thousands Cars of Coal on Sidings.

By Associated Press Dispatch.
Columbus, O., January 17.—State officials and labor and industrial leaders were taken completely by surprise by the fuel order. Uncertainty was marked on every hand.

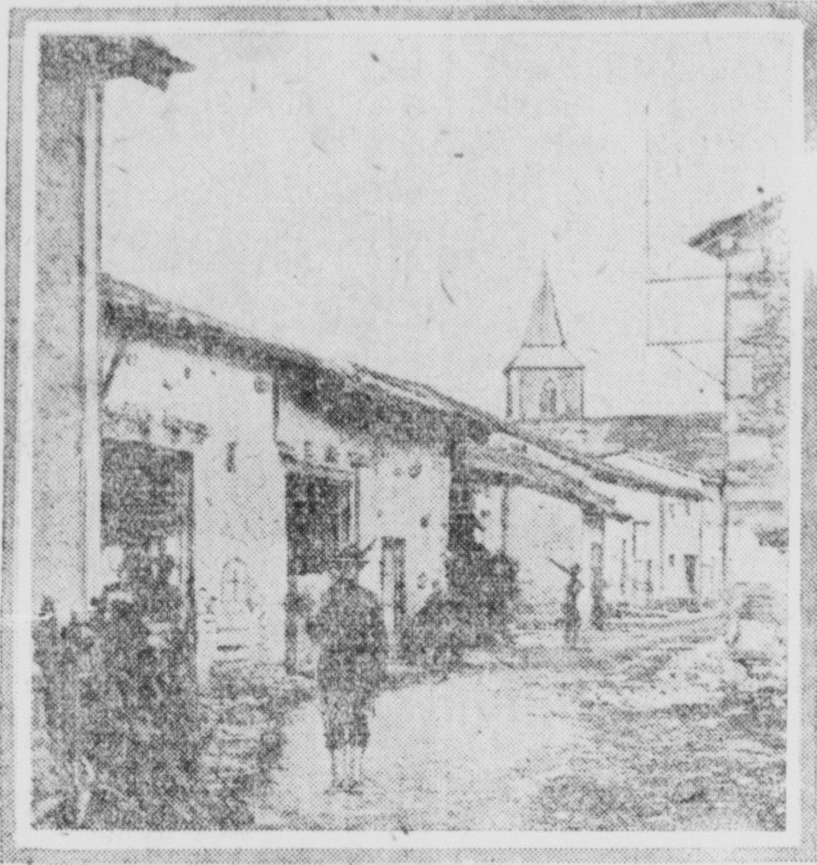

At the state fuel administration office it was said the order would be carried out to the letter, and immediate call was sent to railroads for report of coal tied up and of coal which may be diverted from those industries affected.

It is estimated there are no less than 10,000 cars of coal on Ohio side tracks.

estimate that 50,000 workers will be thrown out of work because of the Fuel Administration order.

MAY USE COAL NOW ON HANDS FOR LIMITED TIME

By Associated Press Dispatch.
Columbus, O., January 17.—The State Fuel Administration headquarters announced this afternoon that all persons, except manufacturing plants having coal on hand may use such coal tomorrow, Saturday, Sunday and Tuesday under Dr. Garfield's order.
Monday, however, it was stated, must be observed as a fuelless day.

WOULD HOLD UP

By Associated Press Dispatch.
Washington, January 17.—Republican leaders in the House started a movement late today to postpone fuel Administrator Garfield's order.

HITS MERCHANTS

By Associated Press Dispatch.
Washington, January 17.—The coal order would prohibit the use of coal in wholesale or retail stores or any other stores, business houses or buildings whatever, except to sell food only, for which stores may maintain heat until twelve o'clock noon; to sell drugs and medical supplies only stores may maintain heat throughout the day and evening. This would appear to apply to department stores as well as all others.

IF IN DOUBT CLOSE PLANT!

The State Fuel Administrator, in response to inquiry from this city, Thursday morning, stated that those factories and industrial plants which were in doubt as to whether they should close during the five days, declared by the Federal Fuel Administrator, beginning Friday, advises closing of such plants until definite information is obtained.
This, the State Administrator points out, will place the operators on the safe side.

DISSENSION IN GERMANY

London Assumes that Hurried Conferences in Berlin Brought No Change in Policy.

By Associated Press Dispatch.
While newspapers report a resumption of the peace negotiations at Brest-Litovsk official confirmation is lacking. The result of the conferences in Berlin also is uncertain.

Both militarist and non-militarist newspapers in Germany claim victory for their respective groups and nothing officially probably will be forthcoming until Chancellor von Hertling makes his statement before the Reichstag Friday.

It is assumed in London the hurried meeting of military and political leaders in Berlin did not result in any definite change of peace policy.

In Russia the Bolshevik government is faced with the meeting of the Constituent Assembly on Friday, and with the carrying out of a threat of war against Rumania should the Bolshevik ultimatum not be answered satisfactorily.

The Bolshevik Premier has demanded that the Rumanians release Bolshevik soldiers now under arrest. Rumania is given twenty-four hours to answer.

REFUSE TO DISCUSS GARFIELD'S ORDER

By Associated Press Dispatch.
Columbus, O., January 17.—Governor Cox today issued the following statement on the coal situation:
"I shall accept the judgment and any order of the President without question. I would prefer, however, not to discuss whether the present fuel proclamation is advisable or otherwise."

White House and Senate Are Bombarded by Protests Coming From Every Section of the Nation, Against Dr. Garfield's Order Closing Down the Industrial Plants, Objecting to the Enforcement of the Order and Suggesting Other Remedies to Meet Conditions.

Orders of National Commission Supreme State Fuel Authorities Shorn of Power Employers Asked to Pay All Employees

Order Came as a Complete Surprise to the Nation and Will Result in Wide Disarrangement of all Business Pursuits. Government Proposing to Purchase Coal From "Closed" Concerns.

WASHINGTON, JANUARY 17.—(Associated Press Dispatch)—Protest against the fuel administration order closing down industrial plants began to pour into the White House and Congress today from all over the country. Business men everywhere, aroused by the prospect, objected to its enforcement and suggested many other remedies.

It developed that under the administration plan the government will buy all coal consigned to the suspended industries. These transactions will be conducted through the Treasury Department and it is estimated will cost the government about $25,000,000.

State fuel administrators will redistribute the coal to food plants and other industries permitted to run.

The fuel administration will issue a series of rulings on queries concerning the conservation order.

State fuel administrators will not be allowed to make rulings and the rulings issued here will have general application.

The order will not include natural gas or use of wood as fuel, nor power derived from water. It is said that the exception of necessary war industries from the operation of the order might be more liberal than first announced.

Dr. Garfield will issue, probably today, a public appeal to employers to continue pay of their employees during the period of idleness because of the order. The government has power to enforce this request, but will call upon employers to take the step as a patriotic duty.

Daily newspapers may burn fuel as usual excepting on Mondays from January 21st to March 25th, inclusive.

On such days they may burn fuel to such extent as is necessary to issue such editions as they customarily issue on important legal holidays.

When a newspaper does not customarily issue any edition at all on such a holiday, it may issue one edition on these specified holidays.

The Fuel Administration meanwhile hurried on the machinery to carry out the plans.

Mines producing coal under contract to industries which will be closed will be directed to turn their output over to state fuel administrators.

The Treasury Department will set aside $25,000,000 to buy this coal. Coal in transit to industries which will be closed will not be purchased by the government, but will be turned over to consumers coming within the preferential list. The coal will be paid for by the ultimate consignee who remit to the mine.

"What we have done," said Dr. Garfield, "I know will raise a storm of objection, but the people will see the necessity of the order."

Instructions covering the main points of the order were sent out today to State Administrators in the East.

STOCKS TUMBLE BUT RECOVER

NEW YORK, JANUARY 17.—(Associated Press Dispatch)—Stocks dropped from fractions to over three points at the opening of the Stock Exchange today, reflecting Wall Street's attitude toward the fuel administration's order. Within half an hour afterward virtually all losses had been recovered.

HITS MUNITIONS

By Associated Press Dispatch.
Lowell, Mass., January 17.—Production of ammunition for the government will be seriously affected by the administration's fuel order, officials said today.

GARFIELD'S VIEWS

The order was made necessary, Dr. Garfield said, by transportation conditions which had made it impossible to supply industries and at the same time furnish homes and public institutions. The necessity for moving ships, he said, was so great that drastic orders were compulsory.

A modification decided on today, he said, put all consumers in the preferential list on an equal basis with no preference shown to any one class.

Dr. Garfield said the plan was to permit certain war industries to operate despite the order. The list of exempted industries, he said, would include those immediately necessary for the war. Aside from shipping and airplanes, he said, he did not know what the list would contain.

While Dr. Garfield was being examined the Senate agreed to postpone until four o'clock debate on the Hitchcock resolution.

Senator Reed adjourned the hearing at 3:29 and the committee then returned to the Senate.

To aid in relieving the transportation situation the Navy temporarily suspended movement of coal to reserve concentration points on the Pacific coast.

The Fuel Administration order threw Congress into an uproar. In the Senate Senator Pomerene said:

"The fuel administrator refers to the Ohio situation as psychological, but with this position before him he orders that persons with coal cannot use it."

"The fuel order does not apply to oil wells, gas wells or oil refineries."

GET FREE TRIPS TO FARMERS' MEETING

Two boys and two girls of Fayette County will receive free trips to Farmers' Week to be held at the Ohio State University, at Columbus from January 28 to February 1. These trips are prizes in boys' and girls' club work conducted by the Agricultural College Extension Service. The winners are: Luther Cory, Good Hope; John Dean, Washington C. H.; Iris Coll, Millersburg; and Mary Hegler, Washington C. H.

Special programs have been arranged for the boys and for the girls. Each group will be chaperoned by boys' and girls' club workers of the agricultural college.

The boys will all have an opportunity to enter the state livestock judging contest which will be held Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of that week. Special medals will be awarded to the prize winners. The girls will receive instructions in the extensive new food laboratories in the home economics building at the state university. A reception for the youngsters will be held in their honor, and every effort will be made to make their visit pleasant and of educational value.

CAPTURES RARE SPECIES OF BIRD

A rare species of bird was captured January 14, by A. B. Johnson, a farmer, living northwest of Greenfield. Noticing the bird feeding upon the carcass of an animal, Mr. Johnson placed traps around it.

The bird is an eagle and thought to be of the Bald Type. It measures seven feet, nine inches from wing to wing.

Being uninjured, it is held in captivity and prized very highly, and is attracting much attention in the vicinity.

SPECIAL SESSION "FISH AND GAME"

A special session of the Fish and Game Association will be held at the Probate Judge's office Friday night at 7:30 for the purpose of making definite plans for the annual banquet, and for other business of importance.

Plans for the banquet indicate that the affair will be even larger than ever before, and a number of sportsmen of note and other prominent citizens from up-state will be present.

THE PETIT JURY TO REPORT ON TUESDAY

The petit jury for the January term of court will report for duty Tuesday morning of next week, at nine o'clock.

The date of the assembly of the jury was postponed on account of the impassable condition of the highways, and the fact that so many attorneys have been kept busy filling out questionnaires.

Dr. F. M. Edwards for 17 years treated scores of women for liver and bowel ailments. During these years he gave to his patients a prescription made of a few well-known vegetable ingredients mixed with olive oil, naming them Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. You will know them by their olive color.

These tablets are wonder-workers on the liver and bowels, which cause a normal action, carrying off the waste and poisonous matter in one's system.

If you have a pale face, yellow look, dull eyes, pimples, coated tongue, headaches, a listless, no-good feeling, all out of sorts, inactive bowels, you take one of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets nightly for a time and note the pleasing results.

Thousands of women as well as men take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the successful substitute for calomel—now and then just to keep in the pink of condition. 10c and 25c per box. All druggists.

AVALANCHE OF PROTEST

Washington, Jan. 17.—The nation's manufacturing enterprises, with but few exceptions, in all states east of the Mississippi river, were ordered by the government to suspend operations for five days, beginning Friday morning, as a drastic measure for relieving the coal famine.

At the same time, as a further means of relief, it was directed that industry and business generally, including all normal activities that require heated buildings, observe as a holiday every Monday for the next 10 weeks. This will close down on Mondays not only factories, but saloons, stores, except for the sale of drugs and food, places of amusement and nearly all office buildings. While the order does not mention ship yards, it is known that they will be permitted to continue operations as usual, although munitions plants will be closed.

The government's move came entirely without warning in an order issued by Fuel Administrator Garfield, with the approval of President Wilson, prescribing stringent restrictions governing the distribution and use of coal. It was decided upon hurriedly by the president and government heads as a desperate remedy for the fuel crisis and the transportation tangle in the eastern states. Even munitions plants are not exempted from the closing down order. Officials would not discuss the rail reaching effects the action would have on the industrial fabric and questions as to how the order was to be interpreted to meet specific problems went unanswered.

The order prescribes a preferential list of consumers in whose interest it was drawn. These users will get coal in the following order: Railroads; household consumers, hospitals, charitable institutions and army and navy cantonments; public utilities, telephone and telegraph plants; strictly government enterprises, excepting factories and plants working on government contracts; public buildings; and necessary government, state and municipal requirements; factories producing perishable foods and foods for immediate consumption.

Industries Unaffected.

Announcement of the provisions of the order was made by Fuel Administrator Garfield after a White House conference which was attended also by Secretaries Baker and Daniels.

The order makes a number of exceptions. It reads: "On Jan. 18, 19, 20, 21 and 22, 1918, and also each and every Monday beginning Jan. 28, 1918, and continuing up to and including March 25, 1918, no manufacturing shall burn or use for power derived from fuel for any purpose except:

"(a) Such plants as from their nature must be continuously operated seven days each week to avoid serious injury to the plant itself or its contents.

"(b) Manufacturers of perishable food.

"(c) Manufacturers of food not perishable and not in immediate demand who may burn fuel to such extent as is used by the fuel administrator of the state in which such plant is located or by his representative authorized therefore, upon application by the United States food administrator.

"(d) Printers or publishers of daily papers may burn fuel as usual excepting every Monday from Jan. 21 to March 25, 1918, inclusive, on which days they may burn fuel to such extent as is necessary to issue such editions as such papers customarily issue on national legal holidays and such papers that do not issue any editions on a holiday, they are permitted to issue one edition on the said Mondays.

"(e) Printing establishments may burn fuel on Jan. 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, such as is necessary to issue current numbers of magazines and other magazines periodically issued.

"(f) On Monday, beginning Jan. 21, and continuing up to and including Monday, March 25, 1918, no fuel shall be burned (except to such extent as is essential to prevent injury to property from freezing) for the purpose of supplying heat for:

"(a) Any business or professional offices, except offices used by the United States, state, county or municipal governments, transportation companies, or which are occupied by banks or trust companies or by physicians or dentists.

"(b) Wholesale or retail stores, or any other stores, business houses or buildings whatever, except that for the purpose of selling food only, for which purposes stores may maintain necessary heat until 12 o'clock noon; and for the purpose of selling drugs and medical supplies only, stores may maintain necessary heat throughout the day and evening.

"(c) Theaters, moving picture houses, bowling alleys, billiard rooms, private or public dance halls, or any other place of amusement.

"On the above specified Mondays, no fuel shall be burned for the purpose of heating rooms or buildings in which liquor is sold on those days.

"No fuel shall be burned on any of the foregoing specified Mondays for the purpose of supplying power for the movement of surface, elevated, subway or suburban cars or trains in excess of the amount used on the Sunday previous thereto."

STEP NECESSARY

Washington, Jan. 17.—Fuel Administrator Garfield issued this statement relative to his order closing industrial plants:

"Adverse weather conditions in the recent week and the inadequacy of the present coal supply and transportation facilities to meet the wartime demand, have made necessary immediate restrictive measures as to the use of coal in that part of the United States east of the Mississippi river. The movement of coal in transportation must be so directed as to aid the director general of railways in dealing with the railroad emergency created by recent blizzard conditions. Domestic consumers of coal must be kept warm and other absolutely necessary consumers must be supplied. All industry must be fully restricted in its use of coal in order that the available supply for the remainder of the winter may be properly distributed and may be made sufficient for absolutely essential needs during the remainder of the winter. Except on the days covered in the order, the normal supply of coal to all consumers will be maintained, the necessary consumers designated in the order are given preference and priority in the delivery and use of coal at all times as well as on the days when other use of coal is prohibited."

To Our Growers—

We desire to announce the price of $18.00 per ton on Sweet Corn delivered at our factory.

We will furnish you Stowell's Evergreen seed same as last year. We realize the fact that seed corn is much higher. However, we will exercise the same care as we have for the past 30 years in the handling of our seeds. We purchase our seed on the ear, tip and butt it ourselves, then sort it by hand, removing all the bad, inferior grains. We have done this for years with profit to the grower as well as ourselves.

We are offering a few premiums on peas and corn, the conditions governing the contest which are as follows:

PEAS

- 1.—To the boy 18 years or under, he to contract himself, who produces the best yield of shelled peas on one acre of ground, a 15 Jewel Elgin Watch.
- 2.—To the best yield of shelled peas on 5 acres open to all growers, $25.00 in gold.

CORN

- 1.—To the boy 18 years or under, he to contract himself, who produces the largest yield of seed corn on one acre of ground 15 Jewel Elgin Watch.
- 2.—The best yield of sweet corn on 5 acres, open to all growers, $25.00 in gold.
- 3.—The best yield of sweet corn on 10 acres of ground open to all growers, $40.00 in gold.

Prizes to be awarded after all crops are in, also to be determined by three disinterested parties who will measure the land. Contestant's crops to be delivered at the factory.

Our Field Inspector, Mr. Harry Hyer, is now taking contracts, for both peas and sweet corn. He will endeavor to see all of you. However, we have both phones; you can reach us at the office.

Social and Personal

The January meeting of the Presbyterian Missionary Society was one to do especial honor to the opening meeting of the year 1918 and was marked by a large attendance regardless of the upropitious weather. The meeting was held at the home of Mrs. R. R. Kibler and assisting Mrs. Kibler as hostess were Mesdames Wm. Smith, Jos. Klabbe, R. S. Quinn, John Wilson, Robbins, C. L. Craig, J. N. Willson, Baughn, O. D. Smith, Roscoe Baughn, Arthur Leland, Hershey, Hammer, Chas. Phillips, Coffey and P. M. Cook.

The topics for the day fitted in well with the times and conditions all the world over, and call for special work; "Financing Missions," and "China." The president, Mrs. Austin P. Hopkins, lead in a most interesting brief opening service, after which the newly elected secretary, Mrs. Fullerton, gave minutes of the last meeting and also read a letter from the Presbyterian president urging full interest and effort for the war fund for which the societies are desired to make their quota by March 1.

The Study Class, which is a class of great interest, will begin its meetings Friday, January 25. The president also called special attention to the news letters and prayer calendar. Mrs. Hershey presided for the program.

The opening paper by Mrs. T. L. Creath was one that well befitted its title: "Efficiency," in the efficient way it was discussed. 1918 is a year of opportunity but also of responsibility more than we can tell. It surely will be a year of service, with no place for slackers. Women today are taking a place as never before. In the near future this land must be made over and for such work missionary leadership must be multiplied and improved. Working and giving and doing. "Give as you would to the Master if you met His searching look."

A delightful vocal solo was rendered by Maxine Kibler, "Open the Gates of the Temple," and also a pretty encore. Miss Avenella Timmons played the accompaniment.

Mrs. Probasco gave a Modern Renaissance of China, that vast country of eighteen provinces and four hundred thirty nine million people—forty million boys and girls needing help. China is a republic, so far as having neither king nor emperor, but political, social and educational reforms are coming.

The anti-opium and anti-foot binding crusades have accomplished much. The quene also now is a sign of national disgrace and is gone. A new system of education has been inaugurated; schools of three kinds, government, private and mission. A great people are feeling their needs and a welcome is given to co-operation for encouraging trade, mines and railroads, for straightening of the waterways and preventing of floods. The constructive work for China will be a big thing for the Christian church to take part in and never have there been such opportunities as today. The concluding number on the program was an interesting leaflet "Chinese Daniel," read by Mrs. W. H. Brown.

A bit of talk about the work before the society impressing the thought that now is the time to work and with fervent prayer for the efforts hoped to be made, the meeting closed.

A little social time and dainty refreshments with it.

Mrs. S. M. Templeton of Greenfield was an out of town guest.

The monthly Officers and Teachers meeting of the First Baptist Sunday School was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Snider, Wednesday night and although the weather interfered with the attendance, proved both social and a business success.

A three course supper hot and bountiful, was served by Mrs. Snider, assisted by Mrs. W. D. Moots, Misses Sarah DeWees and Ruth Davenport. Eighteen covers were laid.

Following the supper there was the annual election of officers and the remainder of the evening was spent in talking over ways and means of improving the school and for a big year's work.

The newly elected officers are Miss Merle Jones, Secretary, Mr. Albert Snider first assistant, Mr. Laris Hard second assistant; Mr. Harry Wood, Treasurer; Mrs. Walter McLean, pianist; Mrs. J. H. Hicks, assistant; Mrs. Albert Snider, Supt. Primary Department, Miss Ruth Davenport Assistant; Miss Florence Smith Supt. of Cradle Roll and Home Department; Mrs. Walter McLean, Assistant; Miss Mary Robinson, Missionary Supt.; Miss Gladys Brown, Assistant.

Mr. Laris Hard was re-elected chorister; Mr. Monroe, Assistant.

Mrs. R. M. Hughey charmingly filled the role of hostess to the Thursday afternoon Euchre this afternoon. A collation of perfect appointments followed the game.

The following pupils of Miss Roxie

Stinson in piano have issued invitations for a recital to be given at Miss Stinson's studio Saturday afternoon at 2:30: Louise Fenner, Marjorie Sparks, Jean Michaels, Dorothy Sparks Whanita Gerstner, Margaret Gibson, Loren Garrett, Norman Price, Ralph Lloyd, Elizabeth Hicks, Genevieve Price, Helen Rodecker, Virginia Elies, Evelyn Soddiers, Dorothy Rogers, Thelma Craig, Helen Richardson, Avenella Timmons, Ruth Brown, Helen Haman.

At seven o'clock Wednesday evening at the Methodist parsonage, Rev. Arthur P. Cherrington united in marriage, Mrs. Maude Hempleman, daughter of Mrs. Maude Tracy, and Mr. Roy Flowers son of Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Flowers.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Perill, a sister of the groom, Mr. Asa Flowers, brother and Mrs. Albert Flowers sister-in-law witnessed the ceremony.

The bride never looked prettier than in her becoming gown of King's blue taffeta, white panne velvet hat, trimmed with ostrich pom pom, with shoes and gloves en suite.

The groom is a hustling and likable young fellow, actively connected with his father and brothers in the bakery business.

For the present Mr. and Mrs. Flowers will be at home to their many friends at the home of the bride's mother on South Main street.

The Thursday Kensington Club was indebted to Mrs. Charles U. Armstrong for delightful entertainment this afternoon.

The women thoroughly enjoyed Mrs. Armstrong's beautiful new home with its spaciousness and cheer. A luxuriant Christmas Cactus added a bright note of color in decoration and a delicious repast was served.

Mrs. Arthur Leland and little son John went to Columbus, Thursday morning for a visit with Mrs. Leland's brother, Mr. J. A. Squires and family.

Mr. W. A. White, for a number of months with the Standard Oil Co. in this city has been transferred to the Jamestown station. Mr. Harry Ankrom, of New Holland, will fill the position vacated by Mr. White here.

Mrs. Elizabeth Dixon and daughter, Mrs. Mabel Ailes have returned from a visit with the former's son, Robert Dixon, in Cleveland.

Mrs. Katharine Porter is recovering from an illness at her home in Millwood.

Mr. George Bybee left Thursday morning for Norfolk, Va., where he expects to spend part of the winter assisting his brother, Mr. Will Bybee, in the management of a large restaurant located at the Portsmouth Navy Yards. Mr. Bybee also felt that the change would be beneficial to his health.

Poetry For Today

THE GIRL HE LEFT BEHIND.
We used to think her frivolous, you know how parents are
A little quick to see the faults and petty flaws that mar
The girl their son is fond of and may choose to make his wife,
A little over-jealous of the one who'd share his life;
But the girl he left behind him when he bravely marched away
Has blossomed into beauty that we see and need today.

She was with us at the depot, and we turned our backs awhile.
And her eyes were sad and misty, though she tried her best to smile.
Then she put her arm 'round mother, and it seemed to me as though
They just grew to love each other, for they shared a common woe.
Now she often comes to see us, and it seems to me we find
A heap of real comfort in the girl he left behind.

"She's so sensible and gentle," mother said last night to me.
"The kind of girl I've often wished and prayed his wife would be.
And I like to have her near us, for she understands my sighs
And I see my brave boy smiling when I look into her eyes."
Now the presence of his sweetheart seems to fill our home with joy.
She's no longer young and flighty—she's the girl who loves our boy.

Conservation

There is no question that conservation of food and fuel, of man power and of labor is the one big reliance of the Allies—their hope of success against German military power which has attained, near human perfection, in the all important, work of conserving and directing the vital forces of a nation.

Mindful of all that, however, there are many suggestions of conservation, many changes offered which, if adopted, would result in waste and loss.

Conservation efforts of the present time, now that we are well launched in the work of war, might be directed with appreciable results to ideas and suggestions.

If our enthusiastic folks could just be made to realize that what the nation needs now is closer observance of the rules, already formulated and adopted rather than new ideas, much more rapid progress would be made and much more tangible results obtained.

The conservation plans are now pretty generally worked out. There may be a few amendments and additions necessary and certainly a few changes of officials in charge, but, in the main, what we need now is obedience and co-operation not extreme ideas which can only lead to waste, confusion and divided efforts.

Save your new ideas for a time when there will be less danger of harm.

That Other Time

In these days and in these extraordinary times of war and national menace when it is necessary for prompt and decisive action, until the peril shall have passed, when concentration of power in the executive and in the military, so abhorrent to lovers of democracy, becomes imperative, we hear a great deal of murmuring and objection by those who are fearful that their constitutional privileges are being permanently abridged.

It is helpful when these fears confront us to look back to that other time, during the civil war, when the life of the nation was threatened, and compare conditions then existing with conditions of the present times. Such a comparison will go far to allay any fear and strengthen confidence that the old order of things will return, as a matter of course, with a return to normal conditions.

Written nearly a score of years ago, Woodrow Wilson, in his History of the American People, describing conditions, as they existed during the second Lincoln campaign, says:

The war had not run its extraordinary course without touching the government itself with revolution. The constitution had been framed with no thought to provide for such days as these. * * * when the government was struggling for life itself; and with the unlooked for exigency had come unlooked for and arbitrary acts of power. The whole authority of their action had seemed of a sudden to be concentrated in the Executive, without restraint of law. * * * Many an undoubted principle of the constitution had seemed as if for the time suspended, in order that the executive and military power might more supreme, to meet a supreme necessity. The men who knew the president and were near to him saw no permanent danger in all this, for they knew the singular nature of the man, detected not a movement of personal ambition in his exercise of power, felt with what kindness of judgment and with what sober motives of public service he acted, and looked confidently to see all things restored as of course to their old poise and balance when the storm of war had passed."

There were so many who viewed with alarm the tremendous grasp of power which President Lincoln was compelled to take in those troublous times, it seemed there was danger of Mr. Lincoln's defeat.

There were enough men whose view was correct, however, to return Mr. Lincoln to the presidency.

The language used by Mr. Wilson in his book is a correct portrayal of present conditions.

Little did the then president of Princeton University, writing of the great Lincoln, dream that within a score of years, he would be called upon to occupy the same position, resort to the same use of extraordinary power to meet extraordinary conditions and be subjected to the same criticism as Lincoln was in his time of trial.

So far as conditions are concerned Woodrow Wilson twenty years ago wrote a correct history of the present time with himself as the principal figure in the great drama of the nations.

Those who know the man in the White House today, are confident of his clean patriotism, his lofty ideals, in which no hint of personal ambitions can be found, just as the men, in Lincoln's time, were confident.

We must again submit to the temporary surrender of individual privileges and place our confidence in the public servant brought forward to meet the requirements of the time.

We need have no fear that all our privileges will return with the passing of the extraordinary conditions, as "of course."

WILL OUTLINE WAR AIMS OF GERMANY

(By American Press)

London, Jan. 17.—Dispatches from Amsterdam announce that an understanding has been reached between the political and military parties in Germany on the basis of the Russian program of no annexations or indemnities in the east and leaving to Field Marshal Von Hindenburg, in case of a German victory, the liberty of dealing with possible annexations in the west, but the evidence tends to show that the factions still are at odds.

Additional meetings at which speakers endeavored to outline the viewpoint of the militaristic element have been broken up, and it is announced that Chancellor Von Hertling is to be permitted to deliver his delayed address on Germany's war aims to the main committee of the reichstag, for which the country has been clamoring.

Adding to the political strife in Germany and Austria comes the announcement of the resignation of the Hungarian cabinet. Due to the conduct of the war. Failure to obtain adequate support for the military program put forward by the cabinet is given as the reason for the resignation of the ministry. The program included the formation of an independent Hungarian army, which Emperor Charles vetoed.

Court and Main Sts.

fluential citizen of Green County, dying only a few years ago.

The old letter, right now, is of added interest because America is again passing through a period of war and other boys of generations that have come on since the great civil war.

Well written, vivid in its descriptions and instructive the letter follows:

Camp of the 74th Rgt. O. V. V. I. Near Atlanta, Ga.,
September 14th, '64.

My Highly Esteemed Cousin, Annie. It is with feelings of the most profound esteem and respect, that I attempt to address you on this occasion, hoping this may find you in the enjoyment of good health. I am most happy to inform you that I never enjoyed better health in my life than I do at the present time.

Since I wrote to you last we have passed through the fiery ordeal of another fierce conflict, and to my heart's sorrow, I have had to behold the forms of three more of the bravest of our Company locked in the cold embrace of death. They, with many others of our Regiment have been suddenly ushered into Eternity.

We left our strong line of works before Atlanta on the 25th of August, leaving the 20th Corps on the north bank of the Chattahoochee; the other Corps of this army started on a grand raid to destroy the Montgomery and Macon Railroads. We reached the first named road on the 28th and destroyed several miles of the road, remained in position on the road for 36 hours when we started for the Macon road. We soon found that the Rebels were in force around the town of Jonesboro, and our own army was soon in position and ready to give battle to the Rebels. Our Corps was thrown round on the Rebel right and on the morning of September 1st, our Division advanced, driving the Rebels before them for considerable distance. Late in the afternoon we were ordered to charge on them and drive them from their position; our Brigade advanced under an awful fire of musketry and grape and canister across an open field at which time several were wounded. When they reached the woods they halted for a few minutes when we again started through the dense forest. The Rebels soon opened a most terrific fire on them from behind their breast works and the conflict became desperate. Still we pushed on for their works, finally reaching their line of works. We slew them by hundreds and captured a large number of prisoners; but also many of our Regiment had been slain by the hands of our enemy. Among the killed there is the brave and gallant Lieut. Scott and Lieut. Bricker, mortally wounded. He died night before last and was buried yesterday. Of our Company there was Henry Hollenberry and James H. Moore, Melville Davis, mortally wounded. I shall never forget the night after the battle was over. I worked all night helping the wounded and dying off of the field. By daylight the next morning we had the wounded all back at the hospitals. I never witnessed so much suffering in one night in my life. Some of the poor boys would say 'If I could only see my Mother or Sister before I die, I would then be willing to die'—but alas, for many of them were locked in the cold embrace of death before the rising of the morning sun. Oh, what an awful thing it is to die so far away from home and friends, with no mother or sister by to give words of consolation in a dying hour.

When the rebels found out that they could not drive us back and had given them such an awful thrashing at Jonesboro they immediately evacuated

Atlanta and the 20th. Corps took possession of the city. We remained at Jonesboro three or four days. We then started back for Atlanta, reaching here on last Wednesday, and have gone into camp. We have a beautiful camp about one mile from the city.

I have received five letters from Mrs. Wright since I came back, was awfully glad to hear from her as we had no mail all the time that we were gone. I wrote a letter to your father some time since, but have heard nothing from you or him for some time. I am waiting to hear from your father concerning having the remains of your dear brother sent home. I think it could be done most any time now. The weather has become quite cold and railroad communication is open now from Atlanta to all points north.

I received a letter from Cousin Kate today. I must write to her at my first opportunity.

There are going to be furloughs granted to a certain percent of the army. I expect to be home some time this winter.

I am as ever your loving cousin,
W. L. WRIGHT.

AMONG WOMEN WAR WORKERS

SMITH COLLEGE GIRLS WORK IN FRANCE

Smith College girls have formed a unit which is doing a wonderful work in mothering the distressed populations of those districts of France devastated by the Germans before they were forced to retreat last Spring by victorious French and British troops. The correspondent of the Associated Press passed a day with the young women in the war zone where they have arrived to install themselves in the midst of the stricken people.

They have made their headquarters in the grounds of the Chateau of Robecourt. There they live in shacks and portable house in sight of the blackened ruins of the castle, burned by the Germans. From this center they go to 12 villages which have been taken over for relief by the American college girls. Before the war they had altogether a population of approximately 4600. Now this has been reduced to about 1200.

"The American 'angels of mercy,'" as the Smith College girls are known, brought with them from America or purchased in Paris large stores of articles of first necessity for the people.

Many of the peasants had money which they had been able to conceal from the Germans, and these people were quite willing to pay for articles provided by the American girls. Others among the peasants were destitute of both goods and money and for these the American girls made charitable provision.

The girls brought motor trucks and several of them are motor drivers.

"Other branches of assistance to the people take the form of a traveling dispensary, the giving of medical advice by the two women doctors from Smith College who are members of the squad, the foundation of nurseries for the care of the smaller infants while their mothers are working, and the establishment of play-rooms for the other children.

"The care of the children is one of the most important parts of the girls' work. In the first place, the little ones have to be retrained to play, for during the German occupation they were not allowed to do so, and in most cases had forgotten how to amuse themselves in simple games. It is wonderful how soon they learn under the American girls' encouragement and leadership. Then the neglected little ones are taken in hand and taught the value of cleanliness and neatness. For the women much help is provided in the way of sewing classes and instruction in modern hygiene."

THIS PORKER TIPPED SCALES AT 860 POUNDS

This is a picture of one of the largest hogs ever produced in Fayette county, and when shipped from this city a few days ago, by Jerome Taylor, the big fellow tipped the scales at 860 pounds, and brought his owner $107.50, or 12 1-2 cents per pound.

The porker was of the Big Type Poland China Breed and was shipped to Pittsburg for market. Mr. Taylor has not yet received information as to what price the animal brought at that place.

The animal attracted a great deal of attention while being weighed at the W. W. Wilson scales, and it was just after this interesting work of ascertaining the hog's weight that he was snapped for The Herald.

HARTMAN THEATER

(Columbus, O.)

Entire Week, January 21.—Matinee Wednesday and Saturday.
"MISS SPRINGTIME."

By far the most important theatrical attraction of the season at the Hartman Theater, Columbus, will be the engagement there the entire week of January 21st, with matinees Wednesday and Saturday of Klaw and Erlanger's exquisite musical comedy, "Miss Springtime."

This charming piece is far above the usual run of musical comedy, as were "Robin Hood" and "The Chocolate Soldier." It is said to touch the high-water mark in Klaw and Erlanger's flood of musical comedy production. The original book upon which Guy Bolton based "Miss Springtime" was written by Martes Brody when the piece was produced in Europe under the title of "Miss Rabbit's Foot." Bolton is said to have given it an entirely new coloring. P. G. Wodenhouse wrote the lyrics. The musical score was written by Emmerich Kalman, who wrote also "Sari" and other delightful operas. The stage direction is that of the ingenious and inventive Julian Mitchell.

The scenes are laid in the European village of Pilota, for two acts, and upon the massive stage of an European grand opera house, ablaze with light and color. In the final act, which is full of adroit surprise, Joseph Urban, most distinguished stage artist, was responsible for the magnificent and beautiful stage settings and costumes.

Among the cast of principals are such names as George MacFarlane, El-

FOR LUMBAGO

Try Musterole. See How Quickly It Relieves

You just rub Musterole in briskly, and usually the pain is gone—a delicious, soothing comfort comes to take its place. Musterole is a clean, white ointment, made with oil of mustard. Use it instead of mustard plaster. Will not blister. Many doctors and nurses use Musterole and recommend it to their patients. They will gladly tell you what relief it gives from sore throat, bronchitis, croup, stiff neck, asthma, neuralgia, congestion, pleurisy, rheumatism, lumbago, pains and aches of the back or joints, sprains, sore muscles, bruises, chilblains, frosted feet, colds of the chest (it often prevents pneumonia). Always dependable.

30 and 60c jars; hospital size $2.50.

For the Man About to Build

If you are in Columbus, Ohio, between the dates of January 21st and 30th, it will pay you to visit the Ohio Real Estate and Building Show, held at the State Fair Grounds.

This exhibit is put on by the manufacturers and dealers in all kinds of lumber and building material, as a sort of school of instruction for those about to build.

There will be miniature models of houses, barns and other buildings, and elaborate exhibits covering building materials of all kinds.

Don't forget the dates and if you are in Columbus try and pay a visit to this Wonderful Show.

Two Wars and Business

Every man, woman and child in Washington and Fayette county should read this declaration of optimism by Frank S. Strattan, Assistant General Sales Manager of The Packard Motor Car Company of Detroit. Much of the historically correct data contained in the following remarkable message was part of a masterly address delivered by Mr. Strattan at the Athletic Club in Columbus, Jan. 4th, and the impressive truth and encouragement, and the hopeful, clarion note of optimism sounded by Mr. Strattan made it seem imperative that it be published, that all of Fayette county might read it for the good it would do. It is well worth any man's time to read and save for future reading this declaration of optimism.

WHILE OUR FATHERS FOUGHT—

When our fathers fought the Civil War they fought in the biggest and bloodiest war of history up to that time. More men, more money and more resources were required than at any previous time in the history of the world. The national debt grew staggeringly. From $59,964,402.01 at the beginning of 1861, it multiplied nearly 46 times, until on August 31st, 1865, it amounted to $2,756,431,571.43. During the Civil War the Government discounted its bonds as low as 12 percent, paid as high as 6 percent interest on them, and on some issues paid a commission of from 1-8 to 1 percent for selling them.

Our banking facilities were poor. National banks were unknown. The banking business was conducted by private and State banks. Banks issued currency. If a bank were well considered its notes passed at par in its own domain. But notes of an Ohio bank, for example, while current at face in Ohio, were discounted in Indiana. When they reached Illinois they suffered still greater discount. The farther from Ohio they circulated the heavier the discount, until one might well fear being put in jail if he happened to carry any of this money into a state as far away as California.

Merchants issued script. Persons fortunate enough to buy a 50-cent article with a genuine Government bill frequently received the merchant's script in change, and to break even, he must necessarily continue to trade with that merchant until the script were gone, provided the merchant did not quit business meanwhile.

Gold and silver were scarce. The situation became acute and the government finally suspended specie payment, adding to the financial chaos.

Taxes were extreme. Commodities were taxed first in the raw state and then as finished products. Incomes, earnings, etc., all paid heavily to carry the burden. Prices soared. Our own territory was invaded and American crops, buildings, railroads, boats, etc., were seized and destroyed. Portions of the country were devastated.

One man to every ten of population (including both North and South) was drawn actively into the war.

WHILE WE FIGHT—

Our fathers' sons now fight. They fight in what has now become the biggest and bloodiest war in all history. More men, more money and more resources are now required than ever before. We face a heavy increase in our national debt. The Government has announced it will have to issue $15,000,000,000 of bonds for the first year's needs. People are nervous, many are hysterical. Business has been threatened with various kinds of ominous curtailment by thoughtless men in high places. And yet our situation is incomparably better than when our fathers fought.

Our national debt on March 31, 1917, was $1,207,827,886.23. If we increase this in the same ratios as did our fathers, we will provide a war fund of $54,352,284,869.35. On the basis of the 15 billion dollar bond issue for one year, this sum will carry us through three years and seven months of war.

Our banking facilities are considered the best in the world. The Federal Reserve System has been developed after years of study of all the financial systems of the world by a specially appointed committee of bankers and statesmen, who chose it in preference to the Governmental Banks of England, France or Germany, or the Branch Banking System of Canada, or the various other plans advanced, such as "assets currency," etc.

Two issues of bonds, aggregating three times the total Civil War issues, have been handled by our banks without a cent of expense to the government for selling.

There is no currency in circulation which is not as good in California as in Maine, and as good in Florida as in Alaska.

The highest estimate of men needed for the war is 5,000,000, or one out of every 21 of our population.

Our government will not suspend specie payment, for we are the wealthiest country in the world, both gross and per capita; we have the most money in circulation per capita, and we possess one-third of the entire gold money supply of the whole world.

Our population is about 1-15 of the world's population. We therefore have five times our normal share of the world's gold, according to this scale.

Our country need fear no invasion. We need fear no destruction or confiscation of property by the enemy, save for the occasional damage done by his sympathizers, whose efforts will be little at best—and to offset what may be done in this manner, we have already seized billions of dollars worth of ships, property, materials and food paid for and belonging to the enemy.

Despite the hardships our fathers faced, even then business boomed.

Commercial failures dropped from 6,963 in 1861 with liabilities of 207 million dollars, to 520 in 1864 with liabilities of only 8 1-2 million dollars. Nine leading rails sold at an average of $35.00 per share in 1862. By the close of 1864 they jumped to $220.00 per share.

During the Civil War statesmen finally devised a good banking system and the Government passed the National Banking Act in 1865.

Our fathers developed a staple banking system by the end of their war.

We begin our war with the best in the world.

Our fathers were paid in Government currency, which had a gold value of from 39 cents to 88 cents on the dollar.

We are paid in currency worth par.

Our fathers' treasury was depleted when they began their war.

Our treasury is full.

When our fathers bought food they often got "beer checks" in change, which they had to trade out.

When we buy food we receive genuine money in change, and trade where we please.

Our fathers had no gold.

We have five times our pro rata share.

One-tenth of the population fought then.

Only one-twentieth need fight now.

They increased their public debt 46 times and had no endorser, for they used it all themselves.

If we increase our debt 46 times, to carry us three years and seven months of war, one-half our debt will be guaranteed by the civilized world, because we are loaning half of our bonded indebtedness to our allies.

From the first day when the First Congress of the United States, or the first official of the Government acting under that authority, paid out the first dollar on account of the expenses of running this Government until the last Congress or the last office of the Government acting under that authority, paid out the last dollar on account of running the expenses of this Government, just prior to the declaration of war against Germany in April, 1917, the Government of the United States spent in round figures a total of 40 billion dollars.

The first year's expenditures following the outbreak of the war, provided for by Congress, amounted to 21 billion dollars, or 52 1-2 per cent as much in one year as was spent in the preceding 128 years.

Much of the 40 billions was spent abroad. Practically all of the 21 billion will be spent at home.

A copy of this remarkable article can be obtained in Souvenir Pamphlet Form at the Midland National Bank in Washington—It is well worth preserving.

Published for the good it will accomplish and the hopeful effect it will have as a patriotic appeal by the Midland National Bank—the only National Bank in Fayette Co.

EXPLAINING
OUR STREET
LIGHT PLANS

The Local Electric and Heating
 Company Answers and Explains
 Why the Proposed Fuel-saving Plan is Impractical.

Many suggestions have been made relative to the conservation of coal by the Washington Gas & Electric Company. In order that our action regarding the lighting and extinguishing of street lights and window lights may be better understood we are submitting the following explanation.

At this time of year the amount of coal used for operating the electric lights is far less than that used by our central station heating department. To shut off street or window lights would not save coal unless such lights were shut off between the hours of six and nine p. m., which is the very time they are most needed. During the two or three weeks preceding the first of the year the peak-load period was somewhat longer due to shorter days and greater business activity.

The hot water which is used in our heating system is heated by exhaust steam from the electric department.
 During cold weather such as we are experiencing at present, the steam derived from the electric department is insufficient and live steam from the boilers has to be supplied except for a short period in the evening when the lights are all turned on. During this electric peakload, there is an excess amount of exhaust steam which must be allowed to escape to the atmosphere. If we could turn off a certain proportion of the lights during this peak we could save a few tons of coal each day, but the lights would have to be turned off at the time they can be spared the least. The lightless nights which are being observed are colored by the Federal Fuel Administration. We would much rather furnish complete service, but we believe it our duty to co-operate with the Administration although the saving of coal is very slight if any at all.

As long as we are able to obtain coal at all, we are able to obtain a supply sufficient for our entire needs.
 The only time we have been considered to curtail our service has been for a period when no coal or any other freight was shipped into the city because weather conditions made it impossible.

Nature has provided an adequate supply of coal for mankind. The problem has become one of digging and transporting it and every effort is being bent towards the solution of that problem. But if coal is produced and transported to our city there is no reason why it should not be used to the best advantage, either for heat in individual stoves or as light and heat for our patrons.

A consideration of the foregoing outline will show that the extinguishing of lights during the latter part of the night or the reduction of electric service during the day will not save any coal as long as our heating service is continued.

SNOW DRIFTS GIVE WAY BEFORE ARMY
OF DETERMINED MEN

The countless huge snow drifts which for five or six days have blocked the highways of the county are rapidly giving way before the determined onslaught of hundreds of men who have been at work throughout the county during the past two days.

As a result of the work of the army of men armed with shovels and reinforced by an auxiliary army of teams attached to snow plows, most of the main thoroughfares of the county are now passable, after probably the longest period of complete blockade in the history of the county.

In many places it was necessary to break the snow for a mile or more where great drifts, some of them higher than a man's head, were piled from fence to fence and many of them frozen so hard that it was all that the workers could do to break into them with shovels.

The work will cost the combined townships several hundred dollars, but was absolutely necessary, and in accordance with the provisions of the law.

In districts where the roads are not freed of snow, the township treasurers are at fault and have been neglected of their duty.

LEO HENDERSON
KILLED BY TRAIN

Leo Henderson, former third trick man at the Pennsylvania station in this city, who nearly lost his life by coming in contact with a live wire while at work alone one night in the local office, died Wednesday night at Maata, Ohio, where he was struck by a B. & O. train shortly after noon Wednesday.

For sometime Henderson and family resided at Junction City, where his father was interested in The Henderson Oil Company, which has a number of local men as stockholders. He leaves a wife.

The young man had been employed by the Standard Oil Company for some time, and it was while travelling for this company that he met his death, while crossing the B. & O.
 tracks, just as a passenger train dashed over the crossing. The unfortunate man was 30 years of age.
